

Google Classroom – Student View

What does a student see when you post an assignment? See below for screenshots from a student account.

After you post an assignment, the student will see it in the classroom stream:

The student then clicks OPEN to view the assignment.

Now that the student OPENED an assignment, they may begin working on it.

If a student clicks CREATE to make a file, it will automatically create a file using the name of the current assignment.

When a student clicks CREATE, the following new file options show up:

Below shows what happened after a student clicked CREATE and chose to make a new Google Sheet.

Notice that the file has automatically been named using the assignment title and the student's name.

- The student now clicks on the file to open it and begin working.
- Students can close the file and return to it at any time.
- There is no need to save; Google saves automatically.
- Click TURN IN to submit the file.

* For assignments that do not require students to submit a file, students would click MARK AS DONE instead of TURN IN.

Once the student submits the completed file, it will show up as DONE in the student's class stream.

~ TEACHER VIEW ~

As the TEACHER, your class stream will keep track of who has/hasn't completed an assignment.
